WELCOME TO NOUMEA

Nouméa, the capital city of New Caledonia is surrounded by a beautiful lagoon. Several bays extend along the city, providing magnificent beaches and points of view. Besides its natural features, Nouméa also has very attractive cultural offerings for tourists who choose to visit there.

Gorgeous bays and splendid islets

Facing the lagoon, the Caledonian capital is the picture of the Pacific: a city to wander about in and live well, especially on the waterfront. The bay attracted the first Europeans to settle here starting in 1853 and has still kept all its appeal, as testified by the very beautiful beach on the Baie des Citrons and Anse Vata. Offshore in these bays are Îlot Maître and Îlot Canard, that can be reached in only a few minutes by boat. Both offer an ideal setting for a day of exploration or of lounging.

A wealth of culture

Noumea has built its Pacific identity through a mixing of cultures and styles. This cultural diversity is reflected on your plate, but also in the architecture and all the attractions it offers. True artistic heart of the country, museums, art galleries, theaters and cinemas are concentrated in Noumea. You can soak up the heritage of the city.

Although colonial-era houses are scarce nowadays, some have still be beautifully restored, like Maison Célières, Château Hagen or the old Nouméa City Hall, which now houses the city museum.

A city of pleasure

This city of about 100,000 inhabitants offers a range of activities that will inspire you with its diversity. Facing the sea and lined with inviting beaches and islands, you can practice outdoor sports all year long; not only walking, snorkeling, windsurfing and kitesurfing, but also golf, tennis and, of course, swimming.

It's also a joyful city with many bars, clubs, and two casinos for festive evenings after – and why not - a day of shopping in the various shops of downtown Noumea and Anse Vata. Three spots you can't miss: Alma Street, Sebastopol Street and the Promenade.

Discover the must-sees in Nouméa

The recently renovated Aquarium of the Lagoon houses a stunning collection of living underwater species. Its treasures include the pygmy seahorse and the famous nautilus, which is one of the emblems of New Caledonia.

Still, blue isn't the only color to represent Nouméa; green also has a prominent place. The luxuriance of the vegetation (palms, coconut trees, flamboyants and hibiscus) commonly surprise visitors.

A green and blue city

The city is blessed with several parks and gardens where you can enjoy a pleasant stroll. Start with the Zoological Forest Park, located in the heights of the city and offering an enjoyable day of discovery as well as local flora and fauna. Other 'green lungs': Coconut Tree Square in the downtown area hosts events and fairs throughout the year, Ouen Toro facing the sea, or even the Nouvelle Trail to Fort Tereka. The sea pediment was also built to accommodate a beautiful stroll between Orphanage Bay and the Pierre Vernier promenade.

Présentation of Club 41

N° 195 Nouméa

The Club 41 Noumea 195 was created on August 14 1990, the founding ceremony took place in front of the mayor of Noumea Mr Jean Leques, Mr Guy Honore, National president of Club 41 France, Mr Pierre Cantais, president of Club 41 3rd region "Heart of France" and Mr Guy Moliard, President of Club 41 Orleans 21, sponsor club for Noumea 195.

For 30 years now, the Club 41 Noumea 195 transmits the values of the French mainland movement to the farthest away part of the world from home.

The initial spark appeared thirty years ago on the Loire riverside through a long lasting friendship from former Round Table members. This explains the historic link to the third region "heart of France".

Thirty years later our Noumea Club – sitting like a pearl on the Pacific Ocean – is certainly privileged by the mildness of the climate and the extraordinary beauty of this part of the world.

Meanwhile it is mainly the friendship that fuels its intense life up to day. The unwavering friendship link between its sponsors and its founders, a friendship that deep, that all future members not only continued, but enriched it with their personal actions or simply their personality.

So we herewith warmly invite you to our 30th anniversary starting October 5th 2020, giving you the opportunity to share the celebrations of our 30 years of friendship.

Our program will allow you to (re) discover our Club 41, the one closest to paradise, with a hint of adventure.
